Krysiá Burnham, writer, chaplain, and teacher, has been a journalist and seeker for over twenty-five years. Her work has appeared in Vogue, ELLE, and The New York Times Book Review. She is a Licensed Minister and brings an artist's "way" to her work with hospital patients. She will help you nurture your imagination in this series of classes that can be taken on a drop-in basis. Through writing and the arts, you will draw from your own deep well of wisdom, to live a life that radiates joy.
